

alias Man Ray

The Art of Reinvention

A Gallery Guide for Families

This guide is for kids and grown-ups to use together as you explore the exhibition.

Note to parents:
Some of the works of art in this exhibition contain mature subject matter, including female nudity.

e xplore

Man Ray used many different materials and techniques to create works of art—he was a painter, sculptor, filmmaker, photographer and a printmaker. Whew! That's a lot! As you explore the exhibition, look at all the different types of artwork. If you were going to create a work of art, what materials would you use?

f ind

There are lots of everyday objects in the art of Man Ray—things you might find in your kitchen, closet or desk drawer. Sometimes these things are easy to recognize, sometimes they look different from what you might expect. How many everyday objects can you find in this exhibition?

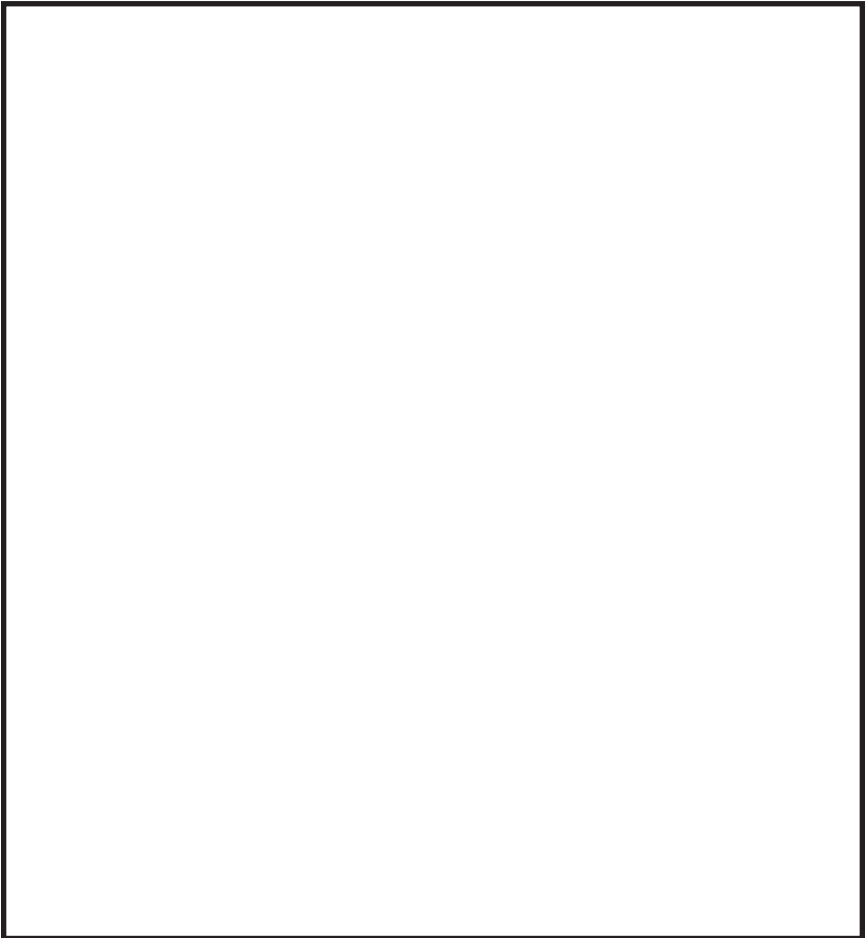

d iscuss

Choose your favorite work of art in this exhibition.
Describe it to your family.
What do you like best about this work of art?

(over)

at home..

Look around your house and collect a few everyday objects. Place them together in an interesting way and then make a drawing of your assemblage in the space below.

Congratulations, you have explored the exhibition alias Man Ray: The Art of Reinvention.

This guide was written by Jamie Auriemma and Michelle Sammons, Education Department, The Jewish Museum.
www.thejewishmuseum.org/families